

Music Producer NeezyThaDon Makes A Comeback

Better Late Than Never

California, Rancho Cucamonga, Feb 13, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - NeezyThaDon is an emerging music producer, engineer, social media influencer, and entrepreneur based out of California. Born in Compton and raised in the Inland Empire, the multi-talented artist specializes in R&B and hip-hop. He's been writing and producing music for much of his adult life and is inspired by artists and producers like Trey Songz, Chris Brown, Troy Taylor, and BMaejor, just to name a few.

Born Darnell Price, he got his first beat machine back in 2004 and has been hooked to the craft ever since. Even converting half of his mother's garage into a recording studio in his high school years. He plays by ear and uses instruments like MPC's, keyboards, and synthesizers in much of his tracks. Now a father of two he is the co-founder and CEO of the entertainment company "NiceBoi Ent." The business provides music production, photography, clothing, and DJ services to people far and wide. He's also a social media influencer, leveraging his following and connections to promote in the Lifestyle niche.

Making a comeback from taking a short break from music, NeezyThaDon returned to the music scene fiercer and more committed than ever. This Project reflects a new turn in his career as a progressive Music Producer.

After some intense hard drive digging and learning the new way of getting your music distributed he decided to sit back and remaster his most favorite beats that he has created over the years to put together a beat tape project titled "Better Late Than Never." The reason for this title is because he has music that the world has never heard before and it will be new to the world even though it may be old to him. So he felt that it would be awesome to share his music before it's too late because life is not promised and music doesn't expire. He's not even doing it for monetary reasons although it would be nice, he wants something his kids can always go back and hear whenever they want. So he decided that all royalties for this project will go straight to his children for their future.

The album titled "Better Late Than Never" is a collective of favorite beats created over the years. Giving you sounds of R&B, Hip-Hop, Pop, and Electronic. Available on all music platforms.
