

WingArc1st's USD 300,000 Data Empowerment Accelerator For Potential Startups In Singapore

Singapore, Singapore, Feb 8, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - WingArc1st will be offering its first Data Empowerment Accelerator in Singapore offering selected start-ups USD 300,000 investment and up to USD 30,000 cash grants for technology development purposes.

Following WingArc1st's collaboration with Singapore-based Azendian in Dec 2020, the accelerator program further substantiated WingArc1st's interest to work with Singapore businesses as part of its business expansion plans and extending their support in Singapore's ambitions to be Southeast Asia's big data hub; an industry that contributes at least SGD 1 billion to the nation's economy annually.

This three-month program aims to develop and strengthen the big data capabilities of high potential technology start-ups in Singapore. In addition to the cash incentives, start-ups that are selected into the program will also have the opportunity to leverage Japanese Tech MNC's superior data technology to scale their business, gain direct and personal access from WingArc1st's C-suite, mentorship from leading industry practitioners from Singapore, and Japan, as well as access support to Japanese market expansion.

WingArc1st hopes this accelerator will be able to lend Singapore start-ups useful resources to revive the economy that is on the long road to recovery.

Applications for the accelerator program (<https://www.wingarcaccelerator.com/>) have commenced until 16 March 2021. Successful applicants will participate in the program from 6 Apr to 29 Jun 2021.
