North Carolina, Asheville, Mar 11, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Adoratherapy launched its first retail store and Mood Boost Bar, in downtown Asheville at the Grove Arcade, a historic architectural landmark in November. Adoratherapy is Asheville's first aromatherapy perfume shop. The conscious beauty and fragrance brand provide a transformational experience with a functional fragrance made with essential oils.

“Your personalized Aura portrait will provide you with insights into your chakras and energy allowing you to work with Adoratherapy to offer insights into the essential oils and blends most suited for your self-actualization,” says Laura McCann, Chief Mood Booster & CEO. “We have created a one-of-kind experience with aura readings and aromatherapy, blending intuition with science creates trust and provides a real service in supporting people’s health & wellness goals”.

“We are in the business of personal transformation through breath and intention. We call this a “beyond perfume” experience”, says McCann. “Our mission is to remind you to adore yourself, something that today is needed more than ever. Our mood-boosting formulations are hand-crafted and bottled onsite. Visitors can try samples, shop and have a seat at the Mood Boost Bar for mini consultations, essential oil education and Mood Boosting tips. Aura readings include an aura photo or an aura photo & report, which provides 14 pages of actionable and detailed information. We also do a couple of aura portraits and pet portraits. Our space is the perfect setting for retreats and parties. “

FAQ

What is my Aura and what does it look like? Every living organism is surrounded by an electromagnetic energy field, called an Aura. This field vibrates at different frequencies and reflects your state of mind, body and inner being. Every color has a different vibrational frequency and is associated with various chakras or energy centers in your body. Your Aura colors are determined by physical, mental, emotional and spiritual states of being.

Why would I want to see my Aura? Visualizing your Aura can help you with various aspects of your life. The colors of your Aura provide insight into your emotions, thoughts, and state of mind, allowing you to gain spiritual awareness. Auras are directly related to your chakras. Each color has a unique meaning. The human field changes from time to time, as a function of emotions, health, energy level, and one’s views on life. However, the overall Aura remains substantially the same over time, subject to minor changes.

How does it work?

Biofeedback probes pick up your energy. The camera displays this information as a color field around your body. The colors actually reflect your physical and emotional state. The human energy system consists mainly of seven major energy points (known as chakras) located along the spine; the root, sacral, solar plexus, heart, throat, brow, and crown chakra. Each center influences a different area of the body. The energy from these points is what healers utilize in most major forms of energy therapy. Depending on the origin of the technique used, energy therapists may call this energy by different names. However, they are all referring to the same force. When the chakra system is out of balance it may cause some people discomfort. The main purpose of most energy healing techniques is to restore the balance within each energy point with the goal of reducing stress, restoring energy and alleviating physical pain etc. When the chakra system is out of balance it may cause some people discomfort. OUR AURA CLOUD SYSTEM

Utilizing the newest techniques, our stunning 3D Aura imaging software displays Aura and chakra results simultaneously. Sit in front of our web camera and place your hand on the Interactive hand sensor. The hand sensor will take readings from your hand and transfer the data to our computer. Our powerful software displays the data from your hand reading as a series of beautifully detailed charts and graphs.

PET AURA SESSIONS

Your dog has an Aura too. We welcome you & your pet at the Grove Arcade. The arcade is pet friendly and so are we. Pet Aura readings let you learn more about your pet's emotional well-being and energy. Our paw pads are easy to use, safe and allow your pet to comfortably receive an aura reading. Enjoy your pet's aura photo. Woof! Woof!
