

photo. As well as counting down, the app also lets people reminisce by counting the days since a previous trip.

With 3.5 billion people using social media each day and 500 million Instagram stories shared on a daily basis, CAN'T WAIT! the app caters to those who love to share their travels on social media. With its growing collection of original, ready-to-use social media templates, the app features the unique option to share countdowns as square posts and vertical stories on platforms such as Instagram, Facebook, TikTok, Twitter, Snapchat, Pinterest, and WhatsApp. The templates, all of which are customizable, make it possible for the user to put their own stamp on the posts and stories they create and share directly to their social media accounts.

When asked about the origins of the app, Go To Travel Guides co-founder, Mason Ifejika said "Like so many people, my family and I can't wait to start exploring different countries again. After 2020 we had, I feel like we all need something fun to look forward to, as well as a reminder of the good times. The CAN'T WAIT! the app helps with both of those things. It lets people count down and look forward to their future trips in style, and it also lets them create & share beautiful memories of their travels. Our aim is simple, we want to get people excited about traveling again!"

The ability to create and share one-of-a-kind travel countdowns and memories is possible in seconds, and with only a few taps using the CAN'T WAIT! app. "We offer our users templates that not only give them design and layout inspiration but also allow for their own creativity and personal style to shine through", explained Go To Travel Guides co-founder, Natalie Ifejika.
