

Director of No Greater Love Documentary Announces the Launch of new docu-series Do Good

Making a difference is 1 click away.

Louisiana, Lake Charles, Apr 2, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Justin Roberts is excited to announce the launch of Do Good, a docu-series not just about natural disasters, but about the people who made incredible sacrifices to help others find hope. Do Goodwill donate 100% of the monetization from the views to the organizations featured in the 10 episode season.

Do Good beliefs make a difference should be as easy as watching and sharing because Justin and Hank both felt at their best when they were helping other people? They understand that not everyone has much to give or the time to donate and are just asking for people to press play or click share to be a part of raising awareness because the frequency and severity of natural disasters are increasing.

Do Good's goal is to focus on one group per episode and share the inspiring sacrifices they made and the impact they had. While sharing the stories of locals, as well as the facts behind the natural disaster. Some of these organizations featured are:

Aerial Recovery
The Cajun Navy

United Way of SWLA

Care Help

Compassion Kind

"This is not a momentary emergency but an ongoing crisis, and this conversation is about all American communities and how we should respond when hit with a disaster," said Justin Roberts, co-host and director of Do Good.
