

The Future of Health is Innovation

United Arab Emirates, Dubai, Mar 23, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - The UK based organisers of Future Health Innovation have recently launched the new Health Week series of virtual events. Starting in the UK on the 8-10 June, the organisers have just announced the series of events will be moving to Dubai, UAE between 21-24 June under the banner Arab Health Week. Visit www.healthweekseries.com.

Focused on innovation and technology in health, Arab Health Week is an online networking event and conference, bringing together health professionals in a safe environment from the comfort of their home or office.

Event Director Dawn Barclay-Ross commented “Arab Health Week offers buyers and sellers the perfect opportunity to explore new possibilities and new relationships using our unique digital platform, without the time and financial impact of live event networking. They do not need to get on a plane or travel to identify new products and services in health that might be right for the citizens of the UAE.”

Barclay-Ross added, “this year-round VIRTUAL showcase of innovative healthcare products and solutions is where professionals from the world of health connect, meet buyers and partake in cross border purchasing, education and deal-making.”

Not only will Arab Health week be an informative networking event but, as a CPD member, it will also allow delegates to add to their CPD qualifying points. Covering key topics around the areas of technology, pandemic planning, healthcare manufacture and mental health and wellbeing, Arab Health Week will be the virtual platform to educate, network and build new relationships.

Currently open for speakers, sponsors and delegates, visit www.arabhealthweek.com for more information or call +44 (0) 208 0128511.
