

Coming in Hot, Skybound Aviation has a New Director of Maintenance

Now Skybound Aviation can offer aircraft owners top-notch maintenance service at an affordable cost.

Georgia, Atlanta, Apr 23, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - Skybound Aviation is excited to announce they have hired Greg Manning as Director of Maintenance. With the maintenance shop now under the careful guise of Greg Manning, Skybound Aviation can offer aircraft owners top-notch maintenance service all at an affordable cost. Manning was hooked on repairing things when he was a young boy by fixing things like lawnmowers and bicycles for pocket change. He spent a decade in the motorcycle industry. He transitioned to piston aircraft 9 years ago and hasn't looked back since. Manning received his A&P license in 2013 and now holds Inspection Authorization privileges. Manning will oversee all aspects of the maintenance shop with concentrations on inspections, pre-buys, and squawk repair for a variety of piston aircraft. His experience and customer service will astound you.

Whether you're a weekend flyer, student pilot, or aircraft owner, Skybound Aviation has your needs covered. We offer fleet maintenance, management, aircraft rental, and flight instruction from skilled instructors.
