

Earvin Eugene is a capable writer

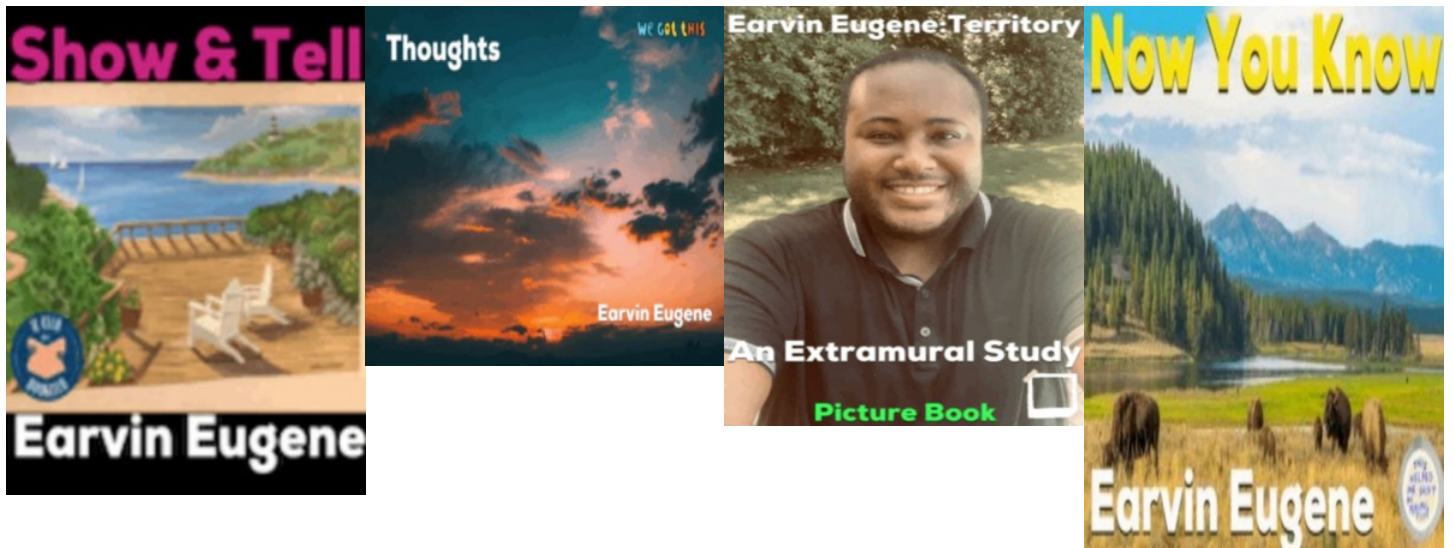

Earvin Eugene is focused and approachable. He applied to Titan Management.

New York, New York City, Apr 7, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Earvin Eugene focuses on short stories and novels. Narratives of self-review existentialism. Moments of amusement, excitement, and failed thrills. Discussions of sincerity and hopefulness. Always looking at the light at the end of the tunnel. Glass half full views. Earvin possesses his own interesting style yet still seeking a mainstream appeal. His purpose is to relate to his audience on lackluster motives of everyday mundane life. Searching for his place in society. As he puts it, "Not necessarily looking to be better than anyone, just perceiving I belong and that my voice matters. Life can be upsetting and the good days make it splendid.”

Titan Management in New York City pursues screenwriters and book writers to support and develop. Earvin thinks they are suitable and that relationship could be wonderful. Other literary agents are interested. Earvin is open-minded and what is meant to be in life will be. The best he can do is be ambitious and opportunistic. Luck comes into play with solid preparation and the consistent work is proof of it. Writing is the final frontier for reflecting society and establishing what we deem appropriate or not. The skill to put pen to paper is the beginnings of anything profound as it translates to music, movies, television, and all forms of entertainment or informative dialogue.
