California, Los Angeles, Apr 6, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Children and their parents in the 21st century struggle to bond with books and let their imaginations fly with beautiful illustrations made on paper because the mode of reading and leisure for kids has changed. In the era of digital advancement, it is important to become the torch that can educate and inspire little hearts with digital illustrations. LaVana Colebrooke, the CEO and lead artist of FANGiMATION Studios has set up a world where fantasies collide with reality to bring joy for young school-goers and kids. She permeates warm visuals to give wings to their imaginations and learn new things. It is important to prepare the little ones for the small steps towards the bigger reality. She brings creative and attractive creations for children's books, stickers, unique merchandise, comics, and myriads of other things to give them the best childhood stories they deserve to remember it for.

LaVana Colebrooke has a frolicsome heart of a 7-year-old and she is living her dream as a digital illustrator every day by creating one-off projects for comics, children's books, portrait illustrations, and palatable children's gifts. She focuses on sharing tales of African Americans in the most imaginative way. She illustrates her imaginations to keep children happy in their thoughts. She founded FANGiMATION Studios in 2020 with the zeal to give the best drive to kids' imaginations. She excelled in her expertise to create colorful content with a mind and positivity of a whimsical child since the age of 12. With her hands-on experience, she has accomplished two books 'this girl Can!' written by Alexis Pierce and 'REACH for the Stars- Little Black Girl' created by Shalia Scribbles.

The art studio is actively promoting positive insight through the black and brown children's books. Children have a hard time socializing and that often throws them into the pit of mental trauma. The creator, LaVana Colebrooke wants to encourage modern kids to weaponize their emotions against any fragile hassles and serious problems in society and understand the wrongness induced in teasing, bullying and disrespecting others. Kids love the magical illustrations that match with their unconscious reality formed of mermaids, fairies, and dragons. For further information, please visit www.fangimation.com.
