

FreeConferenceCall.com Offers Free Video and Collaboration Tools in India to Support Coronavirus Response

Users in India can benefit from a robust suite of video and collaboration tools with up to 1,000 participants and no limits on the number of calls for free.

FreeConferenceCall.com[®]

California, Long Beach, Apr 30, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - FreeConferenceCall.com, one of the most recognized conferencing and collaboration brands in the world, has eliminated all paywalls for users in India to help combat the Coronavirus. Users in India can access the full suite of video conferencing capabilities entirely free of charge. Free video and collaboration tools enable users across the country to meet, work and stay connected during this challenging time.

Free Video Calling Tools for Business, Students, and Communities

Businesses, students, communities, and anyone worried about travelling or prevented from doing so can benefit from unlimited international audio conferencing with local dial-ins for more than 75 markets until the pandemic subsides. Unlimited video conferencing is also included, with up to 1,000 participants per conference and access to screen sharing and drawing tools.

“At FreeConferenceCall.com, we are continuing to respond to the Coronavirus outbreak. We want to ensure users across India can minimize the impact it has on their daily lives. By eliminating paywalls for video and collaboration tools, more people across the country can access critical communications at no cost,” said Dave Erickson, President, CEO, and Founder at FreeConferenceCall.com. “Businesses can be confident that remote workers will be able to stay connected, students will be able to collaborate with their peers and family members can stay in touch all for free.”

Join for Free

FreeConferenceCall.com is one of the largest conferencing providers in the world based on minute volume and has been providing free audio-conferencing services for nearly two decades. It offers free audio conference services online and via its Android, iPhone, and iPad mobile apps.

“We believe that free communications services have a positive social impact. When we saw a surge in usage across our global footprint as Coronavirus spread, we looked at what we could do to help more people. Offering free video and collaboration tools in India is one way that we can contribute and use our technology and services to benefit businesses, communities, religious groups, and a whole range of unique users,” said Erickson.

Get started today at www.freeconferencecall.com

Over 18 Years Dedicated to Free Communication

FreeConferenceCall.com is one of the most recognized conferencing brands in the world with users in more than 800,000 businesses, including nearly all Fortune 500 companies. Unlimited-use service offerings include high-quality HD audio conferencing, screen sharing, video conferencing, audio and visual recording, security features, desktop scheduling, and mobile applications.

FreeConferenceCall.com was founded by David Erickson in 2001 and is based in Long Beach, Calif.

FreeConferenceCall.com[®]

Media Contact

FreeConferenceCall

daviderickson@newsmakerindia.co.in

Source : FreeConferenceCall

See on IssueWire