

How do I Restore my Google contacts?

Searching for the simple procedure to restore your Google accounts

New York, New York City, Apr 27, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Searching for the simple procedure to restore your Google accounts? If so, then your search ends here. Google contacts are the top-notch contacts app that is used for most Android smartphones. This app inevitably starts back up of currently saved contact details on the associated Google account. Go through the below procedure in order to restore the contacts.

- Firstly, navigate to your phone's Settings app.
- On the next move, you need to tap Google.
- Under the "Services" section, you are supposed to tap the Restore contacts.
- If you have several Google accounts, and to pick the accounts for restoring the contacts, you are required to click from the account.
- After this, hit the phone with the contacts to copy.
- If you are not in favor to copy the contacts from your SIM card or phone storage, you have to turn on the SIM card or Device storage.
- Tap the Restore, and hold till you see the "Contacts restored" option.
- In the end, your restored contacts will also sync to your existing Google Account and other devices.

By following the above-mentioned procedure, you can easily restore My Google Contacts in a simple and effective manner. If you are still facing any issue, you can contact Google support and the technical experts will assist you with all your queries.

Media Contact

numberszone

ishaasingh72@gmail.com

1-802-478-7548

Source : Numberszone

See on IssueWire