Odisha, Bhubaneswar, Apr 13, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Mrvirtualworld Private Limited a Bhubaneswar-based startup founded by two friends Ronald Indrajit and Pratap Kumar Jena both are students of Gandhi institute for technology, Bhubaneswar working on great concept VR rather than gaming. According to much research, VR is the future and this startup is bringing the future into the present. After the successful launch of Virtual Cinema Hall going to launch Virtual Shopping mall and Virtual Laboratory will be a game-changer.

According to the founders in the future in almost every field VR is going to use.

About the virtual shopping mall, it's very similar to real-life shopping as it is more enjoyable compared to e-commerce websites. Virtual users can visit several shops, meet other online users, and discuss their shopping preferences. The big advantage is that this type of shopping can be accessed at any time and anywhere.

Users do not have to physically move to a shop to buy their products. Irrespective of weather conditions, users can easily surf the web and shop whenever they want. Products can be delivered directly to customers' homes or to their preferred locations.

A seller can open a virtual store without investing a lot of money and Time Virtually. Now they are welcome to the ecommerce to open their virtual store.

Virtual Laboratory is a really interesting one Students are having less access to lab experiments in school may an hour and The lab equipment are too expensive to open a lab at home. and sometimes students are not understanding the consents of science because they are not seeing the equipment or the chemicals at school or college.

Virtual Laboratory will help science enthusiasts who have a passion for science and experiment. Students from remote areas can operate on live experiments through Virtual reality from home through their phones and computers. Which will increase the interest in words the study.

This startup is really working on the futuristic concept and will go to change the game with the next billion-dollar Market.

According to Mrvirtualworld's two visionary founders, they are going to launch a virtual shopping mall and Virtual Laboratory in this year of 2021 Q2.

And another most interesting thing about this startup is its tagline "A World Inside The World" which speaks to a vision of the startup.
