Many people make the mistake of thinking that hair loss is a minor issue. However, To determine the root cause a thorough medical examination is required. Alopecia, or hair loss in layman's words, is on the rise, with stress and genetics both contributing to the disease's progression, as well as a slew of other health issues. Hair loss can be caused by a variety of causes, including medication, hormone changes, stress, thyroid problems, and others.

Dr. Tejinder Bhatti's Darling Buds Clinic, India's Best Hair Transplant Clinic, is now recognised as one of the world's first FUE hair transplant clinics. It was the first clinic in the world to fully convert to an 'FUE only' hair transplant centre in 2009, after previously performing 100% FUT hair transplants. You can see how this transition is being replicated all over the world in clinics that were previously just doing FUT. Because of its high-quality hair transplant outcomes that are enviable and repeatable case after case, FUE has become a force to be reckoned with.

About Darling Buds Clinic: Darling Buds is a hair transplant facility with a goal to provide the best possible treatment and services to anyone at an affordable price. We put in a great deal of effort in order to obtain and produce the best results possible in the region. Our patients receive secure and competent consultations, as well as appropriate and optimal treatment. Their approach begins with defining and comprehending the issue. They make recommendations about the affective needs of the patients. Darling Buds' highly successful team aims to deliver the best possible outcomes in the industry, which comes as no surprise.

Dr. Tejinder Bhatti is a renowned plastic surgeon who is committed to enhancing the quality of life through advanced FUE hair transplant procedures and his cosmetic judgment based on years of experience and training. Dr. Tejinder Bhatti, a Board Certified surgeon, carefully considers the various hair loss trends as they apply to an individual's particular facial form, and recognises that since no two people are alike, custom hairline designing or "one-hairline-design-fits-all" is bad for the overall profile and gives an unnatural appearance. Hairlines vary for various ethnic and racial groups, so it's important for the surgeon to plan the initial hairline design carefully and in accordance with the patient's wishes during several counseling sessions.

Dr. Tejinder Bhatti focuses solely on hair transplant surgery. Dr. Tejinder Bhatti no longer recommends FUT (strip) because he believes that FUE produces equally good, if not better, results and does so without noticeable scarring if done properly. Dr. Bhatti explains the benefits and drawbacks of FUE vs. BHT (body hair transplant) so that the patient can make an educated decision. Dr. Tejinder Bhatti is now known as one of the world's leading hair transplant surgeons, not just in India.

Training: Dr. Tejinder Bhatti's professional achievements are the culmination of a commitment to learning that has brought him all over the world to learn the most up-to-date, most successful surgical techniques in hair transplant surgery. The experience and qualifications of the plastic surgeon you choose are the single most significant factor in the success of hair transplant surgery. That is why you should be aware that Dr. Tejinder Bhatti has been performing plastic surgery since 1992. He graduated from AFMC in Pune with a bachelor's degree in 1985, then went on to complete his master's degree in surgery and then a super-specialization in plastic surgery (M.Ch) in 1997.
