Successful traders around the world have chosen the market24x365 multi-asset platform to trade Forex, exchange instruments, and futures. The platform offers advanced financial trading capabilities, as well as superior tools for technical and fundamental analysis. market24x365

Powerful trading system

Market24x365 trading system offers an advanced function for market depth (with tick chart and time and sale information), separate settlement of orders and trades, support for all types of trades, trade orders, and execution methods. The platform offers two methods to settle orders: the clearing method is used in currency markets, while the hedging method can be used for currency trading. With the one-click trading feature and Market Depth option, users can buy and sell currency pairs, stocks, and futures with just one click. The Stop Loss and Take Profit options are designed to help secure profits and minimize losses.

With the Market24x365 trading system, you can make optimal use of every market situation!

Professional technical analysis

The most precious wish of any trader is to be able to predict future market movements. Market24x365 offers traders the complete arsenal of analytical tools for deeper price analysis and forecasting. Up to 100 charts can be opened on the platform to allow tracking of all necessary financial instruments. The Market24x365 charting system consists of 21 periods ranging from one minute to one month. This variety of time frames allows you to examine short-term price fluctuations as well as long-term trends. Market24x365 also offers more than 80 built-in technical indicators and analysis objects for more detailed price analysis. Additional technical indicators can be downloaded, purchased, or ordered using additional Market24x365 services such as Codebase, Market for Applications, and the standalone service.

With all of Market24x365's outstanding technical analysis tools, you can be prepared for any market change!

Fundamental analysis

Fundamental analysis tools such as financial news and the economic calendar can also be used to predict the price dynamics of financial instruments on Market24x365. Analyze different economic indicators, read reports from international news agencies, and try to predict their impact on currency and stock prices.

The powerful Market24x365 trading platform offers advanced technical possibilities to successfully trade various financial markets, including forex, stock exchange, and futures markets.
