

The Joe Exotic Vs. Jeff Lowe Tiger King NFT Battle

Watch as the Tiger King NFT release causes Joe to file lawsuit, even though Jeff Lowe has proof of trademarked terms.

California, Los Angeles, Apr 3, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - Tiger King NFT Controversy

-Joe posted legal paperwork to his Instagram account, letting his fans know he is not happy about the current NFT release.

-Joe is referring to this NFT sale as an “illegal auction,” on his Instagram, claiming that he owns the trademarks to ‘Joe Exotic,’ as well as ‘Tiger King;’ The Lowes (Jeff and Lauren) have brought forth trademark paperwork, proving they are once again in the right.

-Inside sources say the NFT feud between Joe Exotic and Jeff Lowe could be included in the filming of Netflix’ Tiger King Season 2.

-This is your chance to own a piece of history! Tiger King brought us all together during a time and defined an unforgettable moment of unity during this once in lifetime, global pandemic.

-This is your chance to own Tiger King NFT History.

-Joe’s legal team is up all hours of the night fighting this to get these off the market, so get them in your cryptocurrency wallets while you can!

-Will Joe strike out again? His previous up-to-bats against Carol Baskin and Jeff Lowe have proven Joe to be a loser.

-Joe’s divorce is on one day and of the next.

-This auction has been moved to the Opensea.io platform, due to Rarible’s inability to keep their verbal agreement, which was to promote The Tiger King NFT Collection on their Explore page.

Link to Tiger King NFT Auction on Opensea: <https://opensea.io/accounts/tigerking>

Media Contact

The NFT Team

therobinsonpropertygroup@gmail.com

Source : Jeff Lowe's Tiger King NFT

See on IssueWire