RIVE Coin also has RIVE MONEY which is a peer to peer crypto sending, lending, and payment app powered by RIVE. Peer-to-peer exchanges are marketplaces where people can trade crypto directly with each other. They provide a technical platform on which buyers and sellers can settle trades on their own terms. Unlike traditional exchanges, they don't process any fiat payments or hold users funds in custody.

This light setup allows them to operate in virtually any country and be subjected to much less regulation than normal cryptocurrency exchanges.

A cryptocurrency wallet is an app that allows cryptocurrency users to store and retrieve their digital assets. As with conventional currency, you don't need a wallet to spend your cash, but it certainly helps to keep it all in one place. When a user acquires cryptocurrency, such as bitcoins, you can store it in a cryptocurrency wallet and from there use it to make transactions.
