Releases

Her latest pop ballad "When I'm Gone" is due to be released on June 15th, 2012. The song is dedicated to someone that you care about while asking them the question of what they'll do after you're gone. Who will they become; how will it change them? It contains a collection of talented live musicians that fill the track with luscious guitar lines and an ethereal, soothing atmosphere. She wrote the song at the tail end of an abusive relationship, as she struggled through moving on from all the good times.

The timeless track will be included in her first full album which is due out on Sunday, May 23rd. When fans purchase the pre-sale of the album, available through Apple Music, they will be given instant access to her song "The Beginning" which has a totally different feel. It's more uplifting with positive overtones about a successful relationship she misses. She also has a synth-wave remix of her song "I Keep on Moving" due out on June 29th, a record that's inspired by her Grandpa who taught her to keep hope and always continue pushing forward towards her goals no matter how hard things get.

The life, the vision

The classically trained singer and pianist have been touching the hearts of listeners worldwide for some time now. Born December 29th, 1988, the Virginia-born singer developed an innate skill at storytelling and crafting her identity early on. She swiftly rose in the charts as a go-to provider of heart-felt pop anthems that drip with authenticity. These are the kind of songs that make you feel as well as think as they touch on the deeper subjects of life and love.

She first made her mark with the track "Ramblin' Man" which was a collaborative effort with producer and guitarist, Phillip Logan. Now she's ready to really muster up a storm with her first album "The Beginning". The record will dive deep into her life story: every up, every down, every heartbreak. Hear it all in raw, uncut detail in this truly timeless release. Growing up in a musical family, she had a passion for songs instilled into her from an early stage. This led her to learn multiple instruments and perform in various groups throughout the years, including opera, musical theatre, big band, jazz, and contemporary styles. She's currently active performing with the Vandí Enzor Jazz Quartet, which was featured recently in the SWISH Arts Series for the NCAA tournament in Indianapolis, and Bye Girls, a musical duo with her mother, in the Indianapolis Region.
