Growing up the daughter of two doctors in Southern California, Dr. Gordon developed a love of medicine at an early age. She spent much of her childhood at her parents' offices seeing how they could help patients look and feel better, and became passionate about aesthetics while watching her father practice cosmetic dermatology.

Having spent the last 15 years studying medicine all over the world, she graduated with her medical degree from the American University of the Caribbean School of Medicine in 2011. After graduating from medical school, she studied anti-aging in Bangkok, Thailand, and completed her residency in internal medicine at The Wright Center for Graduate Medical Education, serving as the Chief Resident in charge of 60+ other doctors.

Subsequent to her education, Dr. Gordon attained board certification in internal medicine through the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM). The ABIM is a physician-led, non-profit, independent evaluation organization driven by doctors who want to achieve higher standards for better care in a rapidly changing world.

Licensed to practice medicine in California, she is affiliated with Valley Presbyterian Hospital, a 350-bed hospital in Van Nuys, Los Angeles.

Internal medicine is the medical specialty dealing with the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of adult diseases. Physicians specializing in internal medicine are called internists. They manage and prevent common and complex diseases by providing comprehensive care and promoting overall well-being.
