Florida, Miami, Jun 16, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - SportsEdTV has named a pair of Caylix Sports experts in physical education as contributors to the FREE online sports education platform. The South African pair, Mario Penwarden and Analja van Zyl develop physical education programs, contributing to the performance of teams and individuals.

“Of note to the parents of our young athletes will be their expertise in a Caylix program called Kinetix which is focused on science-based physical development and the holistic wellness of children,” said

Robert Mazzucchelli Founder and Chairman, SportsEdTV.

Penwarden and van Zyl support the Caylix Sports vision to enable the physical development of children through a scientifically-based developmental approach and complement professional services. The methodology is based on Kinderkinetics, which is a specialized pediatric profession that involves physical activities for typical and atypically developing children, between the ages 0-13 years.

“Analja has three degrees, two in Kinderkinetics from Stellenbosch University and Mario has seen his programs included in nearly 80 South African schools,” added Victor Bergonzoli, CEO of SportsEdTV.

Kinetix offers services to parents, educators, schools, and childcare professionals that seek research-based physical development insight, solutions, and education.
