Karnataka, Bengaluru, Jun 4, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - — Edtech Company TechPledge Consulting proudly announces it has become a Microsoft Authorized Education Partner (AEP), demonstrating its ability to meet Microsoft academic customers' evolving needs in today's dynamic business environment. To earn a Microsoft AEP authorization, partners must complete a test to prove their level of academic licensing and market expertise. TechPledge Consulting since its inception has been constantly demonstrating that it can meet its customers' Microsoft Academic needs; firstly, through its extensive knowledge of Microsoft licensing and secondly, its market expertise.

"This Microsoft AEP authorization shows our commitment and specialism in the academic IT marketplace and demonstrates our knowledge of Microsoft and its academic products," said Ms. Shruti Sinha Founder & CEO of TechPledge Consulting. We hope to accelerate our academic customers' successes by serving as technology advisors for their IT requirements.

By becoming AEPs, partners show themselves to be committed and trained in providing discounted Microsoft academic products to the education market," said Anthony Salcito, vice president of Education for Microsoft Corp.'s Worldwide Public Sector. "This authorization, along with our other education partner initiatives, gives our partners recognition of their areas of expertise and our academic customers the confidence that they are buying from academic IT specialists.

The Microsoft AEP Program is designed to authorize and equip organizations that deliver academic products and services through the Microsoft platform with the training, resources, and support they need to provide their customers with superior experiences and outcomes.

TechPledge Consulting is a Bangalore-based edtech company and global provider of services in the domain like Online IT Training, Certification, and Bootcamp with a focus on helping people acquire the new skills they need to thrive in the new digital world. TechPledge Consulting provides 100% Job-based online training in disciplines such as Microsoft Azure Cloud, Amazon AWS Platform, DevOps Automation, AI and Data Science, SQL & My SQL Management, Full Stack Development.
