Vegan Cosmetics Market Industry Definition and Application:

Vegan cosmetics are plant-based beauty products that are considered cruelty-free as they do not involve any animal-based byproducts or harmful chemical testing on animals. They contain naturally extracted minerals, vitamins, antioxidants, gelatin, and collagen. Vegan cosmetics include various products, ranging from eye cosmetics, nail makeup products to facial beauty products, hair styling, and coloring products.

Note: We are regularly tracking the direct effect of COVID-19 on the market, along with the indirect influence of associated industries. These observations will be integrated into the report.

Vegan Cosmetics Market Market Trends and Drivers:

The global vegan cosmetics market is primarily driven by the growing awareness about the negative impact of petroleum-based cosmetic ingredients. Vegan cosmetics help maintain skin nourishment, reduce skin acne, and improve skin health with toxin-free ingredients. Besides this, the implementation of stringent regulations to reduce unethical activities and a ban on cruelty against animals during the manufacturing of beauty products has also escalated the demand for vegan-certified beauty products. The rising number of celebrity endorsements for promoting vegan beauty products, the increasing influence of social media beauty trends, and the emergence of e-commerce platforms are some of the other factors encouraging consumers to use vegan cosmetics.
