

Hip Hop Lyricist and Artist, Chris "Big Knuck" Washington, has unexpectedly passed away!

California, Los Angeles, Jul 16, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - On Behalf of Heritage Music Group (HMG), it pains us to announce that Hip Hop Lyricist, Producer, and Artist Chris “Big Knuck” Washington has unexpectedly passed on in Los Angeles, California.

With the 2020 release of his first single “Rise”, Knuck was ready to take a new direction of success at the forefront of his natural talents. Knuck’s intentions were to bring light and hope in a time of uncertainty. His collaboration with Faith Evans on her single “Right Now” provides another example of Knuck’s determination to spread positivity and hope through his music. “Right Now” has most recently hit No.1 on the R&B Internet Radio DRT charts.

His passion has been in the music industry for decades and his awards, his love for music, and his talents will always be a notable attributes to HMG & to the world. Knuck was a true example of perseverance as he never stopped fighting for those he loved, his talent, or himself. Knuck’s light will live on forever.

Knuck was not just an artist, but a son, father, and uncle so we please ask that you respect Knuck’s privacy and his family’s privacy at this time, and allow the opportunity for grieving and further arrangements to be made. We continue to promote and ask for respectful & responsible reporting at this time.

Rest in Love Knuck. You will always be HMG.

“The world needs to move in a positive direction and take action today. I have hope and believe we can and we will”- Chris “Knuck” Washington
