California, San Diego, Jul 9, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Bay Area-based Indie Artist, Celiane the Voice, released her new project, Inner Universe, this Spring as she blazes into the Summer with new music, new business ventures, and a new stage show!

On March 21 Celiane the Voice delighted her fans by dropping Inner Universe. Her inspiration for this new project comes from her adoration for comic book anime and animation creators. She has always had her sights set on otherworldly endeavors. Celiane the Voice utilizes her eclectic music style to explore a myriad of genres, including the fusion of hip hop and opera. This self-proclaimed, “Mother of HipHopera” continues to defy odds and transcend expectations in the music industry.

Celiane the Voice understands that being a woman of color (of a “certain age”) in the music industry will come with its own set of challenges, but she is not deterred by the prospect of having to face racism, sexism, or ageism. Instead, she fully embraces who she is as an artist and has found success in creating her own lane.

“I have always been one to take bold, yet calculated risks. I love to push boundaries and shatter glass ceilings. I understand that my style of artistry is not for everyone—I’ve never been a cookie-cutter artist—but that’s what my fans love about me! I’m unique, fierce, and I make my own rules,” said Celiane the Voice.

In Celiane’s universe, there is no such thing as the status quo. She moves to the beat of her own drum, literally and figuratively. As a woman of color, she taps into her ancestral roots to create rhythms that honor her African heritage as well as syncopated rhythms derived from her love of technology and anime. Celiane the Voice believes that music has the power to heal and unite. She uses her music to send out healing energy and positive vibrations out to all of her fans, in hopes that her music will offer some form of healing and comfort to them during these challenging times.

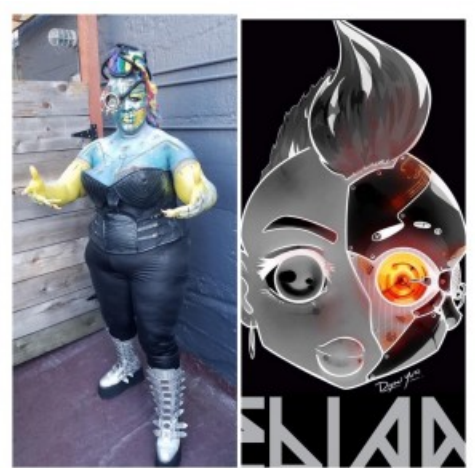

My music is the embodiment of hope, healing, and liberation—and my goal is to make sure my fans feel that on each of my projects. ~Celiane the Voice

Based out of the Bay Area in California, Celiane The Voice is a pioneering and dynamic singer who specializes in the genre of Electronica Hip-Opera, which she created. With a background in both Opera and Jazz and over twenty years of vocal training, both at UC Berkeley and through private instructors, she has developed a mastery over her vocals through hard work and dedication.

Through an understanding of genre and technique, she is able to borrow from a spectrum of musical influences to create a sound that blends electronic music, hip hop, classical, and jazz to create the new and exciting fusion that has become the genera of Electronica Hip-Opera. The eclectic nature of her work allows her to redefine her listeners’ idea of what is possible through music in a traditional sense, and her talent allows her to set the bar high when it comes to her production value. Inspired by prolific artists such as Amy Winehouse, Daft Punk, and Pharrell, she has a taste for the unique and original, and that off-beat sensibility truly shines through. With her music, she is able to form true connections with her audience. Music is her passion and her one true love; it is the thing that she is completely dedicated to and she views it as her better half.

While continually working to build up her repertoire and create a unique and memorable sound, she has performed live at events such as Afro Comicon, NorCal Cosplay Ball, NYE 2018, and Napa Smith Brewery, and she has hopes of touring internationally in 2022. Her work can currently be found online on streaming platforms such as iTunes, Amazon Music, Spotify, YouTube, Soundcloud, and Bandcamp.
