Document your mistakes and reflect.
Not to bring your self esteem down! In fact, it's the opposite: be proud of yourself for realising it early and taking action. Your future self will thank you.

New South Wales, Sydney, Jul 19, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - LinkedIn is the leading platform for professionals to connect with others in their industry and make connections, providing them with opportunities to meet new people, find jobs, and make partnerships. However, not everyone can live up to LinkedIn's standards, even for things like hashtags - a term used on social networks as an identifying tag.

On average, millions of users on LinkedIn spend up to 15 minutes searching for the perfect hashtags to use in a single post, while content marketers and influencers typically spend an average of 15 hours per month searching for hashtags to fit their niche. The right hashtag can mean success - bringing posts out from obscurity and making hard-working individuals visible to prospects once again in the ever-changing algorithm. Meanwhile, LinkedIn allows the struggle to happen.

Recently, an engagement advertising company specialising in LinkedIn growth going by the name FILT Pod has become frustrated by the time and effort spent on helping their user base of business owners find the best hashtags to get more reach on LinkedIn.

As a result, they decided to fix this long-standing problem, experienced by all the LinkedIn users worldwide. Allocating 2 of their best engineers full-time, they created a Google Chrome Extension to help users find the best hashtags quickly and efficiently, without needing to use LinkedIn's broken search function.

Until recently, the tool was released exclusively to FILT Pod users. The team behind FILT Pod recognized the potential of their tool and, despite the risk of releasing it to the public for free, took a chance, knowing how valuable saved time is in the industry.

If you're looking for a better way to increase your engagement on LinkedIn without having to spend hours scrolling through pages and pages of lackluster search results, now is the time to download this growth hacking tool and use it to grow your presence on LinkedIn.
