

V3Cube App Development Company Donates Medical Equipments to Jivdaya Charitable Trust in India

Gujarat, Ahmedabad, Jul 6, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Animals form an incredibly important part of our ecosystem. However, the modern man seems to care a lot less about the animals and is blinded by his desire to become wealthier and more powerful. A few companies however believe in giving back and through corporate social responsibility initiatives (CSR) are able to help nature in their own way. V3Cube App Development Company in India has always focused on efforts to help life forms and support the ecosystem through small acts of kindness.

Jivdaya Charitable Trust is a well-known and trusted NGO that works towards the preservation and healthcare of unnoticed, unowned, free-roaming, or injured animals and birds. They provide medical care for these creatures apart from giving shelter and shelter and rehabilitation to wild birds and bats.

In the past V3Cube has conducted many CSR events supporting various causes. Their Feed the Hungry program is an annual event where they donate free hygienic packaged meals to the homeless. They have also contributed towards charities that help provide medical attention to animals whose owners cannot afford expensive procedures but love their pets just as much.

This time, the coronavirus pandemic left many unowned animals who relied on the kindness of passers-by in a tight spot. While some were threatened with starvation, others suffered indefinitely with various medical illnesses or injuries which no one could notice and help with.

This is why; the management of the V3Cube App Development Company decided to associate with an NGO for this Corporate Social Responsibility.

V3Cube has been in the business of on-demand mobile app development for almost a decade now. While each year brings the promise of success and growth, they never fail to give back to society or their community as a whole.

The company is known to value its customers a lot and this can be seen by their active collaboration with many of these clients towards CSR initiatives. If you check out any V3Cube Review, you will find that during many client visits, these clients were made a part of the whole V3Cube CSR activity, to promote the causes that the company believes in.

“In India, guests are regarded as gods. When our clients visit us, we like to take them with us for all our corporate Social Responsibility initiatives because their presence along with us not only fosters a collaborative global community spirit but ensures that it feels like a blessing from our guests. We aim to be able to do more every year. A little help goes a long way”, said a company spokesperson.

Team V3Cube has been providing clients with customizable solutions for their on-demand business aspirations. They create apps and launch them on the Google Play Store and the iOS app store for their clients.

Their professionalism and sincerity can be derived from the fact that they encourage their clients to take a free demo of their apps before they sell anything to their clients. “If I were buying something, I would want to know exactly what I am getting for the money that I spend. With this thought in mind, we decided that we would most certainly empower our clients to take a live demo of the app before buying it. The demo is not like others in our industry. We don’t limit the time or the number of devices that the client can test the app on. What we mean is, go ahead, download the app on as many devices as you like. Test it thoroughly for as long as you like and buy it only if it satisfies you”, a direct quote from V3Cube management.

Their best-selling apps include the on-demand taxi booking app called CubeTaxi 2021, which is essentially a robust and practical Uber Clone app, and the CubejekX 2021, which is the Gojek Clone app. These apps are just the tip of the iceberg. They have a catalog of over 70 different on-demand service apps that their clients can choose from.

They offer excellent white label services, which means that they remove any trace of their own logo and brand name from the application and add that of the clients all over the app on purchase. They also re-skin the app with colors corresponding to your company’s theme. In case their clients require other customizations such as integrating the local language of the region where they are planning to launch the app or even adding multiple currencies to the app in the event of it being launched over multiple countries, they can get in touch with the team V3Cube and get these jobs done as well.

V3Cube app development company has worked with over a hundred clients from all over the world. To know more about their products, the experience of their clients in working with them, and the expertise of their team, you can take a look at the V3Cube reviews that you can find on their website as well as YouTube.

Through this particular CSR initiative, the V3Cube App Development company donated 2 medical types of equipment, primarily to assist with X-Ray testing for birds and animals to Jivdaya Charitable Trust in India. More details on other charitable events and Corporate Social Responsibility activities held by V3Cube are available on their website.
