

Fashions Finest Resumes Its Live Fashion Events With Celebrity Turnout

United Kingdom, London, Sep 20, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - Fashions Finest resumed its live fashion shows on Saturday the 18th of September at St John's, Hyde Park presenting a diversity of unique and beautiful collections by emerging designers.

Eastender Actress Milly Zero and boyfriend rapper Ransom were in good company joining actress

Lindsey Peel, Victoria Featherstone Pearce, artist Sophie Tea, singer Rene Byrd, Scottish singer Melanie Masson, Farah Sattaur, John Galea, Philip Baldwin, Annaliese Dayes, Miss Paula London, boxer Idris Virgo, singer Indira May, singer Pauline Henry to name a few.

Radiqal Tat's plus-size collection was brought to life as plus-sized models owned the catwalk strutting down the runway. Shokushu Boutique enticed guests with its signature latex fabrics and cute and colourful twist.

Followed by UNIQUE whose effortlessly elegant and feminine collection made for an easy-to-wear style.

Ad Astra combined comfortable oversized silhouettes with more sensual details and was influenced by Architectural designs and the 20th-century Italian art movement futurism, particularly its attention to geometrical shapes.

The six-piece collection 'God's Creation' by Irish designer Jana Simone was inspired by her upbringing and her surroundings adorned with religious features used embroidery and had a great variation in textile design and finish.

Elegant non-fetish luxury leather lingerie, with touches of silk and lace, was introduced by Elisha Quarman. The print engraved on the lingerie was a continuous line drawing inspired by the curves of the Chinese dragon.

Paying homage to the late pioneering modernist Irish artist, Mary Swanzy, Irish Sharon Sweeney's Swanzy Land collection used Irish Linen, cotton, ramie, tencel, and deadstock fabrics, full of colour and texture.

Birmingham-based Kaffa Mockbill then closed the show with red-carpet-worthy couture gowns and finished with a spectacular bridal dress ending with a standing ovation for the designers and the show.

Fashions Finest partners for SS22 were: AOFM headed up by international Makeup Artist Michelle Strain, Julie Bryan Nails, Nuprint Magazine, FMB Radio Nottingham, The Fashion Breakdown, Unity in the Community. Special thanks to the hair team led by Amy Tasker, Annie Berry, and Harriet Dawson.
