What Yaya loved about these ladies was their passion to bring forth the best in their clients, giving them the opportunity to become the vision they have seen themselves becoming. During the interview Yaya Diamond asked about their services and here is what they had to say:

“So currently we offer three services. Individual coaching package, package that either allows you to work with Jenise or me as often as you like. Typically, we do that within a three to four-week time span, or you have the opportunity to work with two coaches two on one, because again, the things that I may not pick up Jenise is able to do, and vice versa. We also offer group coaching, which allows us to work in small groups. Some people say, “Hey, you know, I don't necessarily want to be on the spot being one on one with a coach, but you know, I want to network, I want to be a part of the community with other people.” So we offer group coaching as a package on a monthly basis. We also customize personal retreats allowing our clients, who are working through life goals, challenges, etc. so we'll customize an entire program for that one individual to make sure they accomplish their goals.”

Getting to know them both was such a pleasure. They both have the client's best interest, well-being, and progress in mind. They work together to formulate a plan that helps the client, reviling the pitfalls, where progress can be made, where time can be saved, and most of all how they can become the person they have always envisioned themselves becoming. Omni Om Coaching is the place for women looking to do more with their lives as a whole.
