Get to know Anesthesiologist Dr. James Brian Hough, who serves patients in Moultrie, Georgia.

New York, New York City, Sep 14, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - Dr. Hough is a well-versed anesthesiologist who is affiliated with Colquitt Regional Medical Center in Moultrie, Georgia.

Founded in 1939, Colquitt Regional Medical Center is a 99-bed community-based teaching hospital located in the heart of Southwest Georgia. At its core, the hospital exists to provide high-quality and compassionate healthcare to all who enter through its doors. Its mission is to provide exceptional healthcare that exceeds expectations.

Upon graduating with his medical degree from the Chicago Medical School at Rosalind Franklin University in 1992, Dr. Hough went on to further his education. He completed his residencies in internal medicine and anesthesiology at the Mayo Clinic School of Graduate Medical Education.

In practice for over three decades, he is board-certified in anesthesiology by the American Board of Anesthesiology (ABA), whose mission is to advance the highest standards of the practice of anesthesiology. As the certifying body for anesthesiologists since 1938, the ABA is committed to partnering with physicians to advance the lifelong learning and exceptional patient care.

Anesthesiology is the medical specialty concerned with the total perioperative care of patients before, during, and after surgery. It encompasses anesthesia, intensive care medicine, critical emergency medicine, and pain medicine. Anesthesiologists have the primary responsibility of monitoring the patient's vital signs during surgery. In addition to basic measurements such as pulse, blood pressure, and temperature, they measure the patient's respiration.

Dedicated to excellence, Dr. Hough has contributed to the field of anesthesiology and pain medicine by conducting research and publishing his findings in prestigious medical journals, including The Pharmaceutical Journal and The British Medical Journal.
