Studying Madman1's music, you can get an intense feeling of how he felt while writing the music. His hit single “Amends” is a heartfelt song about his life story.

With lyrics such as:

“Of course I have an addiction, a starving musician, Trying to get my demo tape,
For somebody to listen”

Referring to personal life experiences with addictions connected to music and trying to get heard while not having the money and studio as a teenager to do so. This track has a very strong message and meaning.

Madman1’s music is appealing and something any listener can relate to. We have all been through hard times, Madman1 expressed motivation for the listeners. He has a goal of spreading positivity through music.

Madman1 is a Christian and believes in Jesus Christ. He leads his family to church on Sundays and recommends fans to show up as well. Chris Davenport has studied religion since a young age. Religion and music are the 2 things that he stuck with on his rise to success.

In Madman1’s hit single “No Fear” he says

“They wanna go to heaven but they don’t wanna die, they wanna give it hell but they don’t wanna strive”

Referencing Christians who sin during their daily life and do not repent from their sins. We have seen throughout hip-hop there are fewer musicians trying to spread the word of God. Oftentimes, they feel as if they are living in their own heaven but do not care to think about Jesus Christ. Madman1’s goal of this single was to get listeners back on track from their wrong paths.

Christopher Davenport grew up in rough conditions and poverty. He was beaten as a child and neglected. His music shows more than lyrics, it’s a reality. His lifestyle was troubling and very suffering on the come up. Madman1 had to work from the bottom to create his vision and make it a reality. He has made his way out of poverty and manages to express a calculated mindset through thick and thin.
