California, Los Angeles, Oct 3, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - Captivating storyteller Jennifer Irwin made a fantastic entrance into the literary world with her debut novel in the fall of 2017. A Dress the Color of the Sky introduced us to Prudence Aldrich, a woman who had been numbing the pain in her life with random sexual encounters. Her marriage on the rocks and some dangerous experiences with strangers make her realize she needs therapy to stop her self-destructive behavior, and so she checks into the Serenity Hills rehab center.

Now, in A Dress the Color of the Moon, we follow Prue, as her friends call her, and a few of the cast of characters from rehab as they venture out into the real world with a whole new set of coping skills.

Irwin begins a hybrid tour of virtual and in-person readings and book signings this month. Both books are available at bookstores and online retailers.

A Dress the Color of the Moon, published by Glass Spider Publishing, Inc. will be available at bookstores and online retailers beginning October 30.
