Dr. Mangone attended the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine and graduated in 2009 with his Doctor of Osteopathy degree. He then completed a one-year internship at Nassau County Medical Center, followed by a two-year internal medicine residency at the prestigious NewYork-Presbyterian/Queens in Queens, New York (2010 - 2013)

Dr. Mangone is board certified in internal medicine with the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM). The American Board of Internal Medicine is a 501 nonprofit, self-appointed physician-evaluation organization that certifies physicians practicing internal medicine and its subspecialties.

Internists are physicians specializing in internal medicine, a discipline focused on the care of adults emphasizing the use of the best medical science available in caring for patients in the context of thoughtful, meaningful doctor-patient relationships as exemplified by the life and work of Sir William Osler, the "father" of internal medicine in the United States.

Hospital medicine is a medical specialty that exists in some countries as a branch of internal or family medicine, dealing with the care of acutely ill hospitalized patients. Physicians whose primary professional focus is caring for hospitalized patients only while they are in the hospital are called hospitalists.
