Dr. Clare is the Chair of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at SUNY Downstate Medical Center and Professor at the College of Medicine and the School of Public Health.

SUNY Downstate Medical Center is one of the nation's leading urban medical centers. As the only academic medical center in Brooklyn, they serve a large population – over 2.3 million people – and one that is among the most diverse in the world. They are also an engine of opportunity for students interested in pursuing careers in health care.

Born to two Jamaican immigrants in New York City, Dr. Clare completed her undergraduate degree in psychobiology from Binghamton University in 1992 and her medical degree from the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in 1997. Following this, she completed her residency in obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Buffalo in 2001. She obtained a Master of Public Health degree in Health Policy and Management at New York Medical College.

Distinguished as a Fellow of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (ACOG), the doctor is board-certified in obstetrics and gynecology by the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology (ABOG). The mission of the ABOG is to define specialty standards, certify obstetricians and gynecologists, and facilitate continuous learning to advance knowledge, practice, and professionalism in women's health.

Following her formal education, she joined the faculty at the New York Medical College, where she serves as the Associate Dean of Diversity and Inclusion, an Associate Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology, and Director of Resident Research. She is also an attending physician in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at New York City Health + Hospitals/Metropolitan, and is Chair-Elect of the Obstetrics and Gynecology Section of the National Medical Association, the largest and oldest organization of African American physicians in the United States. She is also an NMA Region 1 Trustee, and Secretary of the NMA Board of Trustees.

Obstetrics and gynecology (OB-GYN) is the medical specialty that encompasses the two subspecialties of obstetrics (covering pregnancy, childbirth, and the postpartum period) and gynecology (covering the health of the female reproductive system – vagina, uterus, ovaries, and breasts).

As a testament to her success, Dr. Clare has been recognized for her teaching as a medical educator and earned the Award for Teaching from the Association of Professors of Gynecology and Obstetrics in 2012, and the Medical Student Teaching Award from New York Medical College (2008, 2009, 2012, 2014, 2015, 2017, 2018, 2019).
