

World's first AI software to automatically capture the name, contact information and company of all website visitors

This will change digital marketing and sales forever!

Los Angeles, California Nov 28, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - ClientEye has launched a revolutionary artificial intelligence software that can automatically detect the name, contact information, and company of all website visitors.

This provides businesses with new business opportunities and leads to follow up with.

The software was designed to help all types of companies regardless of whether they are a small regional business or a fortune 500 company. It is completely scalable and customizable based on the clients' unique situation.

Any business that has potential customers visiting their website can benefit from this product and learning about it can change their business.

The CEO of the company Sepi Madani has said "Our goal is to change the way digital marketing is done by providing never before available data to marketers".

They are currently offering guaranteed results with no commitment for any business that wishes to try their service.

The ClientEye press team is available for information requests and interviews to help you create quality content regarding sales and marketing for your audience.
