New York City, New York Dec 7, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - A committed interventional cardiologist, Dr. Warchol sees patients at Staten Island University Hospital.

A part of Northwell Health, Staten Island University Hospital is a 668-bed specialized teaching hospital that occupies two main campuses and numerous community-based health centers and laboratories. The 17-acre campus on Seaview Avenue in Ocean Breeze offers a wide range of services and features the island's most advanced emergency department (ED), a state-of-the-art education center, and a renowned Heart Institute.

A native of Poland, Dr. Warchol graduated with his medical degree from the Jagiellonian University Medical College in 1987. Upon graduation, he relocated to the United States and completed his internship and residency at the Staten Island University Hospital. Later, he completed his fellowship at St. Vincent's Catholic Medical Center.

A Fellow of the American College of Cardiology, the doctor is board-certified in cardiovascular disease and interventional cardiology by the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM). The ABIM is a physician-led, non-profit, independent evaluation organization driven by doctors who want to achieve higher standards for better care in a rapidly changing world.

Cardiology is a branch of medicine that deals with disorders of the heart, as well as some parts of the circulatory system. The field includes medical diagnosis and treatment of congenital heart defects, coronary artery disease, heart failure, valvular heart disease, and electrophysiology. Cardiologists are doctors who diagnose, assess, and treat patients with diseases and defects of the heart and blood vessels (the cardiovascular system).
