

Hollywood Has a New Royal and His Name is Ray Vincent Mann

Ray Vincent Mann has the blood of French Kings in His Veins

Los Angeles, California Dec 14, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - After Europe's longest reign of King Louis XIV, the Sun King was succeeded in 1715 by his great-grandson and namesake, Louis XV. The new monarch and his fascinating mistress Mme. de Pompadour found additional ways to flaunt their expensive and capricious taste-both at Versailles and at the ever-proliferating smaller chateaux built as places of refuge from court formality. The insatiable desire for ostentation expenditure was handed on to King Louis XVI and to his freckles queen Marie Antoinette, and by 1789 the uncomprehending French monarchy stood at the brink of revolution. Hollywood Producer, designer Ray Vincent Mann knows this story of France, its Kings and Queens, and their House of Bourbon all too well, because they are Ray's blood relatives. That's right, Ray Vincent Mann is of Royal French blood because he shares the same Royal Paternal Bloodline as King Henri IV, King Louis XIV, and King Louis XVI of the Royal House of Bourbon of France. Ray just found out about his bloodline relationship from his DNA test with the French Kings and says that he's trying his best to adapt to his friends and associates who now keep calling him a royal.
