

Indians & Israelis Collaborated Over WhatsApp to Create the Next Generation WhatsApp

The OkBye app allows for seamless communication with people after you finish talking to them, without even having to tap or open an app

Valsad, Gujarat Dec 12, 2021 (IssueWire.com) - With the global population embracing the digital revolution, the line between usefulness and clutter has become thinner. We've reached a point where we don't remember what apps we've installed, leave alone use them on a daily basis. However, communication could be more streamlined, and we should be able to accomplish more with more apps and software. But the reality is unfortunately far from that.

"I had to collaborate with teams across continents, and I had to do this effectively as well as efficiently," said Erez, the Founder, and CEO of OkBye. "As I used several communication apps such as Skype and WhatsApp, I could discover the missing pieces/functionality in those apps. I simply tried to fill in the gaps, and we ended up creating the OkBye app. OkBye is an app created out of necessity. And as we all know, necessity is the mother of invention!"

"OkBye is a simple app that accomplishes complicated tasks. OkBye is for everyone, and can replace your real-life assistant, allowing you to accomplish all your daily tasks with ease. You can do more for yourself, your job, and your business. The limits are truly endless!" says Kalpana Tandel, the Development Partner of OkBye.
