Politically India is standing at a crossroads now. More than seven decades after independence, India is slowly but steadily coming out of the intellectual slavery of centuries to become a nation by reclaiming its own ethos and culture which are thousands of years old. This present paradigm shift necessitates transformation and change in the narrative of India.

is a compilation of eighteen articles on different contentious topics. Each topic has a prevailing narrative. But the author, in the book, has given the other side of each such narrative. Present India’s paradigm shift necessitates transformation and change in the narrative of India too. The book tries to give a hint to that effect.

Jadabeswar Bhattacharjee who was born and brought up in Assam has served as a doctor in Arunachal Pradesh, Delhi, and Kolkata and retired from the Central Health Service as a Higher Administrative Grade officer after 35 years of service. He evolved in writing on politico-religious issues and sociological topics after his retirement.

The Alternative Narrative’ is his third book this year. First, two books have been published during 2021 also. The first book is titled “Politically Incorrect Point of View” (Store link: <https://www.akinik.com/products/1084/politically-incorrect-point-of-view>), the second book is titled “Politics, Bong and Faith” (Store link: <https://www.akinik.com/products/1193/politics-bong-and-faith>) and the fourth book, which is under publication, is titled “The West Bengal Saga”.

Jadabeswar Bhattacharjee is presently enjoying his retired life by reading and writing between Kolkata and NCR.
