

The Legendary Aaron Bing Is Not Gone or Forgotten

Aaron Bing Is Expanding his Contributions to the Music Industry

Jacksonville, Florida Dec 9, 2021 (Issuewire.com) - The elevator pitch for Aaron Bing has increased to reflect a number of hats. He's not just a jazz musician. Most of his fans wonder where he is. Well, Aaron has been behind the scenes in ways that most of his fans may not know even be aware of it. He's Aaron Bing the composer, actor, sound engineer, entrepreneur, producer, and jazz artist. Aaron's fans remember him as a jazz musician who brings the warm compelling sounds of the saxophone which captivates the audience. His desire is to cross multiple genres of music, and expand his empire is the journey that Aaron has been working aggressively on these days.

Recently, Aaron teamed up with world indie artist Intelligent Diva on the single "Sex to a Sax. Aaron Bing was the featured artist and producer of the track. The single Sex to a Sax has charted all the way to #1 on the World Indie Chart. It was also submitted for a Grammy for consideration for song of the year. Just to be considered for such a difficult category among another great artists who received nominations is a huge accomplishment.

There is so much to Aaron, which we feel the world needs to be able to see how much he continues to contribute to the music industry. Aaron is the owner of Century Studios, where he has rendered services for major labels and artists. Therefore, his contributions to the music industry have not stopped. His contributions to the music industry expanded. He has also done the scoring for the movie Flint Tale which is currently in selected movie theaters. Flint Tale is an independent film directed by Marc Cayce. Aaron is also an actor in the film. The film's opening credits let you know that Century Studios is part of the motion picture and that Aaron was a contributor.

In the year 2022, there is so much in store for Aaron Bing. Aaron is working on new music and also planning to pitch a request of Aaron Bing being featured on unsung. We think that it's about time for music organizations to recognize that artist who is multi-talented are not always gone when you haven't a new song being released by them on the front end. They are still working on helping other artists on other projects and expanding their crafts. Major labels like for the artist to focus on making good music. But, when you are the person, with the skillset to perform all of the roles that it takes to create a hit record, and video. Then you are a valued asset to the music industry, and people need to know that your talent is a huge asset to the music industry. It doesn't matter if you are the performing artist or behind the scenes. For his existing fans and new fans who want to still hear Aaron Bing. He's all around you. Be on the lookout for his upcoming music releases. Yet, make sure you continue to stream some of his greatest hits.
