Melbourne, Victoria Jan 9, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - The year 2022 has finally ticked in. As Australia has announced opening its borders for citizens, permanent residents, international students, and tourists gradually, many students are finally seeing a ray of hope.

Amidst all the official announcements coming in from the Department of Home Affairs, Australia, Connect PTE has been gearing up to take 2022 with all guns blazing. The Melbourne-based PTE coaching institute plans to grab a larger market share of the PTE coaching market in Australia this year. The institute switched to online PTE coaching last year and got a great response. “The online PTE coaching was received very well by our audience; much better than we expected”, said Ms. Reema Dhupal – PTE Coach, Connect PTE.

Connect PTE already received quite significant attention at the end of 2021 when it introduced special packages targeted towards students who wanted to take coaching for selected modules. Earlier, the institute also gained a good number of admissions for its Unlimited Coaching package, which was priced at $350 and offered 180 classes. “We plan to get more aggressive this year with our strategies and enroll more students. We have the top coaches, equipment, technology, PTE tutorials, PTE mock tests, and everything else that is required to be a market leader in PTE coaching”, added Mr. Avik Andalib, the Business Development Manager of Asia Pacific Group – the company behind Connect PTE.

Well, the future of in-class PTE coaching still remains uncertain because of the new variants of COVID-19 reported and new cases popping up every now and then, the online PTE coaching; however, currently seems to be the best and safest option, both for the institute and the students.

The competition is tough, but the way Connect PTE is aggressively approaching the PTE coaching market, seems they are up for something big in the near future, especially when the borders open completely!
