BarRaiser, the intelligent interviewing platform built to give every recruiter, hiring manager, and talent professional a unique experience in the interview process, today announced 20,000 interviews conducted on its platform.

The company already has more than 100 Customers across the fast-growing startup ecosystem in India and South East Asia conducted 20,000+ interviews.

India is one of the most important markets for them, globally for business and growth. The company is eyeing 10X growth in the number of Interviews on the BarRaiser Interview platform within the next year.

Commenting on this announcement, Avinash Saxena, CEO & Co-Founder, BarRaiser said, “ We have received quite an overwhelming response from our customers and we are solving a very complex tech hiring problem that is a pain point for many years of the majority of companies globally. This is going to grow further as we see the digital transformation happening worldwide ”

He added, “Today, for hiring managers, taking Interviews is affecting team productivity. On the other hand, for HR leaders, recruiting new employees is suffering from bias. Most engineering teams are running behind delivery schedules due to slow team ramp-up and many are facing inconsistencies in the skillsets of the incoming employees.
