

Seaworthy Collective's Sea Change Maker Cohort Deadline is Approaching

The start-up community and venture studio also announces the launch of the Seaworthy Foundation

A promotional graphic for Seaworthy Collective. The top half features a group of ten diverse professionals standing together. Below them is a large white box with the text "APPLICATIONS ARE OPEN" in bold, blue, sans-serif font. The Seaworthy Collective logo, a circular emblem with a fish and the text "SEAWORTHY COLLECTIVE", is positioned above the text. At the bottom, there is a dark blue banner with the "1000 OCEAN STARTUPS" logo and the text "A COALITION TO ACCELERATE OCEAN IMPACT INNOVATION". Below this is a dark blue banner with the text "Deadline 01. 30. 2022" in yellow. The background of the bottom half is a blue and white image of ocean waves. A small circular icon with a person silhouette is in the bottom left corner.

APPLICATIONS ARE OPEN

1000
OCEAN
STARTUPS
A COALITION TO ACCELERATE OCEAN IMPACT INNOVATION

Deadline 01. 30. 2022

Miami, Florida Jan 14, 2022 (IssueWire.com) - Seaworthy Collective (SC), a Miami-based BlueTech startup community and venture studio empowering current and aspiring entrepreneurs in the regenerative ocean and climate impact, is now accepting applications for its second Sea Change Maker Cohort launching in April 2022. The application deadline is approaching on January 30, 2022, and entrepreneurs can apply on the website www.seaworthycollective.com/seachange.

The Sea Change Maker Cohort will once again bring together aspiring entrepreneurs to build co-created startups through Seaworthy's venture studio while giving existing ocean-focused startups the opportunity to make catalytic connections within Seaworthy's network of over 100 mentors, collaborators, and investing partners, as well as enter Seaworthy's pitch competition.

"We look forward to welcoming new entrepreneurs and building on the success of our first cohort," said Daniel Kleinman, Seaworthy Collective's Founder and CEO.

Seaworthy Collective's inaugural cohort featured ten startups (including two co-created startups) that addressed climate change reversal, regenerative sources of seafood, coastal resilience, and detecting and removing pollution.

"The collective accomplishments of our first cohort are truly something we're incredibly proud of and serve as proof that our groundbreaking approach works," said Kleinman.

Cohort 1 overall accomplishments include:

- 84% of all 3-month KPIs accomplished – 90 total
- 151+ new collaborative relationships initiated
- $126,900 grant and investment funding raised
- 6+ partnerships created
- 6 advisors onboarded
- 3 pilot projects lined up
- 3 operators added

The inaugural cohort concluded on October 27, 2021, with a startup showcase at the Frost Science Museum in Miami, FL. Seaworthy Collective recently published all of their major milestones and details about their breaking approach on their website here.

Seaworthy Collective also recently announced the launch of their standalone non-profit, the Seaworthy Foundation, co-led by Stephanie Wright, Seaworthy Collective's Development Director. This new dedicated non-profit social impact arm fully complements the organization's existing for-profit economic impact arm, to drive regenerative ocean and climate impact.

"The Seaworthy Foundation is our future," said Wright. "Our non-profit will build and educate our community by leading ocean innovation in accessibility, inclusivity, and interdisciplinarity. Each of us is a part of the Seaworthy Foundation's mission to bring resources, inspiration, information, opportunities, and community to go at this together. We're opening the floodgates to build this even better with the collective effort of our community moving forward. With your help, we can turn the tide and solve the ocean's greatest problems together."

For more information about Seaworthy Collective, the Sea Change Maker Cohort, or the Seaworthy Foundation, visit www.seaworthycollective.com or send an email to Info@SeaworthyCollective.com.

Media Contact

Seaworthy Collective

angela@seaworthycollective.com

Source : Seaworthy Collective

See on IssueWire