

Telegenisys announces a new medical malpractice tool to find conflicting medical opinions in medical records

Fairfield, California Jan 11, 2022 (IssueWire.com) - Telegenisys, a medical record services provider today announced an innovative new feature to help healthcare professionals and personal injury lawyers find conflicting medical opinions.

Telegenisys introduced the new feature for Taxonomy/provider specialty categorization that will allow users to quickly sort through patients' records for any conflicts of treatment plans among various healthcare providers involved in their care. Thus, making it easier than ever before possible to identify areas where discrepancies may exist with regards to the patient's diagnosis. Personal injury lawyers and healthcare professionals can now search and discover conflicting medical opinions conveniently and easily using Telegenisys' Visualize Medical Records (VMR) software.
