John Wilson has been busy building a catalogue of music for CineVision Music (CVM) and Norfolk Music Publishing (NMP) but he is now sharing his first personal collection of work with the world. Inspired by science fiction film soundtracks, concepts of space travel, and discovering new worlds, Echoes features ambient textures, synthesizers, and it provides an immersive listening experience.

“John is a composer with a great ear and really strong musical ideas. His production is always to a high standard and he would be a great candidate for any project in the world of music for media.”

- Jamie Wilson (Virtual Death Match, Pagan Warrior, The Viking War)

Composed, produced, and mixed by John Wilson. Mastered by Andy Simpson at Burghfield Recording Studio (Esther & The Sisters, Ed Stokes). Photography by Bray Falls.

*“I like to experiment with sound and create a listening experience through my music. This is merely the beginning of what I have to share and there are many other interesting projects in progress right now! If you are a fan of science fiction film soundtracks or anything to do with space, Echoes is what you need to listen to next!”*

Nearly two years in the making, Echoes represents the creative process from start to finish. Echoes combine meditative music with eerie atmospheric soundscapes to create tension and release to showcase the struggles that can appear along the way. Echoes are OUT NOW, via Consciousness Productions, and can be heard on streaming platforms. It is also available to BUY on CD and digital download HERE.
