

Katahide Enhances Analysis of Environmental, Social, and Corporate Governance (ESG)

To address exposure obligations, Katahide uses specific environmental data categories.

KATAHIDE

Osaka, Japan Feb 22, 2022 (IssueWire.com) - Katahide, a professional asset management firm with investment management skills across all major areas of the global capital markets, which is constantly improving its existing platforms and value-creation expertise via innovation, today announced its intentions to further enhance ESG exposure conditions in order to include additional reporting for key environmental data categories.

Clients who own assets can use this technique to approach particular environmental exposure indicators for their investments. This also entails the release of a new ESG insight, an environmental report, which allows investors to obtain environmental analysis based on a set of criteria.

Market participants can utilize the produced data to communicate with asset managers and stakeholders about their investment portfolio's environmental impact, as well as to create analysis and data for periodic disclosures. Clients may use the detailed information to discover strategies to achieve sustainability goals and comply with new regulatory requirements.

The information can be used in several ways. It is important for acquiring fund-level environmental exposure monitoring and evaluating key scores among individual managers, portfolios, and areas. It also helps to control changes in a portfolio's environmental exposure in order to monitor market stakeholders' interests and to encourage conformity to sustainable investment agreements.

“Environmental variables operate as a driving force, requiring effective material exposure monitoring and enhanced reporting. Our expertise is focused on our clients in a variety of ways, assisting them in treating the ESG element with caution while making business decisions. Katahide's staff is committed to providing clear insights to our clients as they carry out their ESG duties. Our studies are produced with the assistance of a number of information service providers”, said Yamada Katsumi, Institutional Client Strategist, Katahide.
