

Makarem & Associates Represents the Plaintiff in Legal Malpractice and Sexual Harassment Case

Los Angeles, California Mar 8, 2022 (IssueWire.com) - Makarem & Associates attorneys Jared Walder and Ron Makarem represent a single mother in an upcoming sexual harassment lawsuit against the woman's former attorney. The lawsuit alleges sexual harassment, sexual assault, legal malpractice, and breach of fiduciary duty against the defendant, Ronald Nolan, an attorney and principal of the Law Offices of Ronald J. Nolan, located in Valencia, California.

The sexual harassment lawsuit alleges that the plaintiff, residing in Chino, California, retained Defendant Nolan and his law firm in 2017 to represent her in connection with legal claims against her former employer, but that while representing her, Mr. Nolan allegedly sexually assaulted and harassed her.

The woman's lawsuit also alleges that Defendant Nolan failed to advise her that she had potential employment and disability discrimination claims against her former employer. As a result of the alleged sexual assault and legal malpractice, the plaintiff, in this case, is seeking compensation for emotional distress, lost income, and exemplary damages as a consequence of Defendant Nolan's alleged illegal, discriminatory, and negligent conduct.

Defendant Nolan, for his part, denies all allegations of sexual harassment and assault and legal malpractice. Defendant Nolan also denies that his former client suffered any damages for his alleged sexual assault and harassment and legal malpractice.

Jared Walder of Makarem & Associates represents the plaintiff with the trial proceeding in Los Angeles Superior Court.

California averages 398.7 sexual harassment cases each year and the EEOC and California Department of Fair Employment and Housing reported 5.5% of cases filed with the office were sexual harassment cases from 2010-2020.
