Recenturesoft Infotech offers a wide range of web development services, from mobile web development and user-friendly designs to custom eCommerce and online marketing services using the most up-to-date frameworks and technologies. So far, they have successfully completed projects for all of their clients from various industry domains.

Shiva Nand, the CEO and Founder of Recenturesoft envisions producing a company with a perfect balance in its development trajectory: expert team, economic results, effective marketing strategies, and values, to have a remarkable presence in the market with potential clients has been a huge ongoing success.

While their development team has worked enthusiastically to deliver each client project successfully, they have developed and launched a brand new, really convenient project as their new core product, namely: WorkTrackzilla.

Let's learn about Recenturesoft's newly launched product: WorkTrackzilla

As the world got hit by the Covid-19 pandemic, all the industries were forced to go into lockdown. But pausing the work for who knows for how long, was impossible to envision. Almost all the companies switched to Work-From-Home mode of office and so did Recenturesoft.

But tracking the daily work activities of the employees and keeping the record in check was a bit of a hassle manually and it is then when the idea of creating a software that tracks the whole office's work distributions, attendance, productivity, etc. The software was named as WorkTrackzilla, the name describes it all!

Worktrackzilla is a next-generation remote work tracking software that analyses your employees' productivity during business hours. This tracking software is safe, versatile, and simple to use and also acts as a time tracking tool that allows you to track individual employees' or the entire team's working hours.

The software demonstrates exactly how much time an employee devotes to work-related activities versus how much time they spend idle or taking their time doing ineffective things. Worktrackzilla software allows business managers to monitor their employees' work and take appropriate action.

It also includes a computer screenshot capture feature, which takes a screen capture of the employee's desktop at predetermined intervals.

Some of Worktrackzilla's other key features are:

- Idle time recording
- Desktop recording
- Website & URL tracking, etc.

WorkTrackzilla's initial Beta stage was a huge success with positive feedback from different companies. It is based on a simple principle that allows for friendly employee tracking without putting too much pressure on the employee. When WorkTrack was first being developed, the team had only input personalised screenshot features that can capture the screenshot of the desktop of each employee. However, as the lockdowns tightened, the team realised that screenshots alone weren't enough to get a sense of what Recenturesoft had to offer. Consequently, in a short amount of time, the company was able to develop exciting features such as idle time recording, exportable timesheets, and the list is constantly growing.
