UPS Battery Market Segmentation: The UPS Battery market is divided into three topologies: online, standby, and line-interactive. With a market share of 48.3 percent in 2020, the Online sector has dominated the industry. The online UPS is the most advanced and expensive UPS accessible. Because the inverter never receives power from an AC outlet, it is always transferring clean power from the battery to the computer. The online UPS, also known as a double-conversion UPS, is designed to provide uninterrupted power protection. These factors are propelling the UPS battery industry around the world to new heights.
