New York City, New York Mar 8, 2022 (IssueWire.com) - A highly trained gastroenterologist, Dr. Grant is in practice at Montefiore's New York Associates in Gastroenterology. She also serves as an Adjunct Clinical Assistant Professor at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine.

Most of the physicians at Montefiore's New York Associates in Gastroenterology have spent their entire careers at Montefiore and have extensive clinical experience in a broad range of specialties. As physicians committed to the prevention and treatment of digestive diseases, they provide a full range of diagnostic and therapeutic services and treat everything from gastroesophageal reflux disease or heartburn to acute liver failure.

Academically, Dr. Grant graduated with her medical degree from the Robert Wood Johnson Medical School. Wanting to further her education, she completed a residency in internal medicine at the Jacobi Medical Center, followed by two consecutive fellowships in gastroenterology at the Downstate Medical Center and Maimonides Medical Center.

As a testament to her continued education, the doctor is board-certified in gastroenterology and internal medicine by the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM). The ABIM is a physician-led, non-profit, independent evaluation organization driven by doctors who want to achieve higher standards for better care in a rapidly changing world.

Gastroenterology is the branch of medicine focused on the digestive system and its disorders. A gastroenterologist is a physician who has extensive training in the diagnosis and treatment of disorders related to the esophagus, stomach, small intestines, colon, liver, pancreas, and biliary system.
