turn this page into a business that can drive real-world conversions by connecting real estate buyers with real estate agents and companies. We are just getting started."

Frye goes on to say, "I believe that many industries that are largely offline nowadays will begin to shift to more digital marketing tactics, real estate being one of those industries. Instead of paper flyers and physical signs, real estate agents will leverage social media pages like mine to find quality real estate buyers."

Needless to say, Frye is a young man on a mission, looking to capitalize on the ever-growing attention that social media platforms are receiving.
