Jarred Letofsky thought he only had one skill - his skill in the kitchen - but soon realized he was destined for more.

At the young age of 17, he decided to move out of his parent's home...And ventured into the real world to search for his own path and fulfill his destiny.

A few years later, he found his true calling in entrepreneurship. He built an eCommerce store of his own. Two and a half months later, he was able to generate 7-figures in revenue.

Jarred Letofsky discovered that he was actually good at it and even partnered with equally passionate and hungry business partners.

It didn't take long before they helped and scaled several eCom businesses from scratch into their first 6- and 7-figure businesses.

Now, Jarred Letofsky runs 5 multiple 7-figure businesses with a team of over 25 people around the world, including being a Successful Life Coach.

I could tell how passionate Jarred Letofsky was with his goals and purpose in life...And he actually cares that whatever he does is aligned with his core principles and beliefs.

The 2 Experiences That Pivoted Jarred's Discovery Of His Calling

"I don't measure a man's success by how he climbs but how high he BOUNCES when he HITS BOTTOM." ~ George Patton

When Jarred Letofsky got out of his parent's house, he got hired for a serving job at a local restaurant in Florida. While doing a 9 to 5 job, he was also hustling to learn about marketing, entrepreneurship, and Forex trading on the sidelines.

He had two shifts in one day...

One time while he was on a break after his first shift, he went for a bottle of beer at the bar where he was working. The bartender didn't bother to tell him that he wasn't allowed to have a beer while on shift - even on a break.

Later that day, the managers called him and asked if he had a beer during his break time.

With no hesitations, Jarred told them the truth which surprised them.

They never expected him to tell them the truth...

They told him they'd call but they never did.

At that point, Jarred didn't care because he knew that what he was working on the sidelines was going to take over his job.

And it did.

Doors of opportunities came in opening for Jarred...and from there, he never looked back.

But what inspired me more was his mindset whenever something like that happened to him...

"Any time that I let go of something that I was working on, it just feels amazing because I know that something new and better is coming in.” ~ Jarred

While building his own empire, Jarred realized that the passion, excitement, and exuberance he has...most people didn't have.

He occasionally hopped on Facebook Live and just talked about motivation and inspiration.

This led him to share the positivity, the passion, the excitement, the exuberance that he has with other people.

Not long after, people he didn't even know came reaching out saying how he inspired them...

These same people were now doing things greater than what they're doing and doing something bigger than themselves.

One of the most unforgettable experiences for Jarred was how he reconciled the disputes between his family members.

Because of Jarred's skill and gift, he was able to reconcile the relationship between his mother and sister-in-law leading them to have a relationship better than ever.

And today, Jarred is not only helping business owners strategize and solve their problems, but he's also impacting people's lives as a successful life coach.

“I wanted to spread this type of positivity to the rest of the world because I just want to impact humanity in a bigger way so that there's less chaos for everybody.” ~ Jarred
The Key Factor That Allowed Jarred To Build His Empire

“All knowledge is connected to all other knowledge...The fun is in making the connections.” ~ Arthur Aufderheide

You are the average of the five people you hang out with...

This has been said many times.

And Jarred is a prime example of how success comes to you naturally when you surround yourself with people who are equally passionate and who already achieved the life you want.

Jarred's journey to success was not always sunshine and rainbows.

He stumbled, experienced failures, got rejected, and even experienced being put into jail.

When he was young, he associated himself with individuals who were fond of doing illegal activities.

And Jarred soon realized that being associated with these individuals is not something aligned with what he wants to accomplish in life.

He distanced himself and instead began connecting with people who have a mindset like him.

He partnered with a fellow passionate entrepreneur and together they built an agency that catered to eCom business owners.

Their services were all done-for-you from branding to scaling...

They were able to generate 7-figures in revenue for their clients and they were getting results.

It was during this time that he realized he could do something more and bigger than himself while impacting people's lives.

Bottom Line: Connect with the right people who are aligned with your goals and core principles. The Most Pivotal Change That Allowed Jarred To Operate From A Place Of Love

“All healing starts with beginning to accept yourself and love yourself; even your flaws.” ~ Bryant McGill

Jarred believes in his worth and always believed there's a right way of doing things, including business.

When he was being power-tripped by clients in his previous agency, he made a big decision that would soon change the trajectory of his life.

Rather than become a part of something that's creating more chaos for him and other people, Jarred decided to shut down the agency.

This experience led him to distance himself from business altogether for a while.

He went to Puerto Rico for four months, mended his past, and sought personal healing.

“I had to make that decision to separate from all that...to do some personal healing from all the past life events and stuff that I've put myself through and just be able to center myself and reset back to a peaceful state. Right now, there's no chaos in my life.”

By undergoing a process of personal healing, Jarred was able to move past his chaotic life and is now able to operate from a place of love.

He's now able to see things more clearly and is able to help more people in a more authentic way.

As such, money is no longer a big factor, whether he's helping you out in your life's struggles or in your business, he's more than happy to lend a hand.

And to him, that's what genuine help really means.

Jarred's Top 3 Pieces Of Advice For Entrepreneurs

“Your success will be determined by your own confidence and fortitude.” ~ Michelle Obama

Successful and multi-millionaire entrepreneurs think at a higher level than the average person.

Jarred didn't have any crazy talent for being an entrepreneur, he just learned what it took to get there and actually did the work needed to build it.

What You Feed Your Mind Is what You Become "If you always think negatively about everything, you're in a trap really fast."

Be very careful of the things that you think about.

Always put the right thoughts into your brain.

Start by affirming yourself with all the positive things you can think about.

You have to attract what you want to become...

And you have to act to it as if they already were.

Your mind is a powerful thing and if you learn how to program it the way it should be...

You can actually accomplish anything you want.

Don't Do Things Just For Money "If you're doing things just for money, you're always gonna fail and create chaos inside your life."

Money is not the end of everything.

It's a means to achieve what really matters in life - healthy relationships, satisfaction, and fulfillment in life.

If you do things just for the sake of money, there's no sense of fulfillment and satisfaction in what you do.

Even if you have all the money in the world but you aren't happy with your life, it's not worth it.

Money is good but only if it serves its right purpose.

Don't be blinded by it.

If you're so good at what you do and it actually helps solve other people's problems, money will soon follow.

"Failure is not the opposite of success - it's a part of it."

You've heard this quotation many times because it's true.

Jarred urges you to not see things as failures but as learning steps.

And when these learning steps are compounded, they lead you to success.

Entrepreneurship is a journey for those who can endure the long run.

Along the way, you'll experience failures, rejections, setbacks...but giving up is never an option.

Steve Jobs says: "You can't connect the dots going forward, you can only connect the dots when you're looking back."

Your experiences in the past mold you into what you are today.

These experiences enable you to make decisions wiser, choose better, and do things better than you were doing yesterday.

The most successful entrepreneurs never stop learning because they know there's never a limit to what they can learn and there's always room for improvement.

Final Words From Jarred

What I love about Jarred's story is how passionate he was while sharing it.

The energy was so contagious that I was beaming with a smile as I was asking him questions.

Jarred's pursuit to find his own calling and actually put it into action is what inspires me the most.

There's no one way to success just as there's no one way to reach the top of a mountain.

And there's no magic formula or secret ingredient to becoming a successful entrepreneur...it's simple once you break down what action steps you need to take.

Here are Jarred's final words for entrepreneurs:

- "No matter what you choose and decide to do with your life, you just have to take action and the universe has your back."
- "Be open-minded to all possibilities. There are hundreds of ways to reach your goal in life. If a plan doesn't work out, look for another way until you find what works best for you."
- "Always believe in yourself. Stop negative self-talk. Learn to affirm you're positive side. If you set a goal of becoming successful, affirm yourself every single day as successful. Believing what you are, attracts that thought and eventually, you will become what you attract."
